GENUINE WARFARE BEGINS ON THE MEXICAN BORDERS

FEDERAL TROOPS AT AGUA PRIETA DRIVEN ACROSS THE BORDER INTO UNITED STATES.

JUAREZ TO BE ATTACKED

City Opposite to El Paso Fears Advance of the Rebels Under General Madero—Will Demand Recognition of Their Government.

Washington, April 14.—Mexican insurgents under "Don" Lopez, today hold the town of Agua Prieta on the United States border opposite Douglas, Arizona.

American property and lives are in danger in further fighting following a battle yesterday in which the federal garrison was routed, many killed and forced to seek refuge with United States troops.

After crossing the border they were disarmed and are held prisoners, according to notices to the war department today.

Two Americans on the American side of the border, were killed, and seven wounded by flying bullets, the notices say.

Twelve rebels were killed and sixteen wounded. The federal loss was equal.

Hundreds of Americans watched the battle which raged in the shadow of the American custom house. Bullets flew thick and fast in Douglas and the Americans only sought shelter after several were wounded.

The insurgents arrived unexpectedly on a special train and immediately started a withering fire on the garrison.

Two of the federal captains who fled to the Americans for shelter were arrested, were ordered by American officers to warn the rest of the garrison to surrender.

This finally done, the firing stopped and the remainder of the garrison marched to the city across to Douglas. Lopez then took possession of the town.

Gen. Lopez said today he expects reinforcements from the Madero army of one thousand men.

At Juarez.

Juarez, Mexico, April 14.—General Navarro and his garrison worked with feverish haste in preparation for an attack by two thousand to three thousand insurgents advancing on the city under General Madero.

People are fleeing and conditions border on a bad panic. El Paso, Tex., just across the river, is crowded with refugees.

The rebels outnumber the federal forces by four to one. The biggest battle of the war is expected this evening after which the insurgents will demand recognition by the United States.

Held Responsible.

Washington, D. C., April 14.—The Mexican government, according to the view of the state department, will be held responsible for the loss of life and injury to Americans at Douglas, Arizona, during the battle at Agua Prieta yesterday.

No matter whether the fire of federal or that of the insurgents inflicted the injury, it will be the federal government to which the United States will look for reparation.

A protracted conference on the situation was held this morning between the President and Secretary of State.

Fear Attack.

Douglas, Ariz., April 14.—The Mexican federal troops are reported approaching Agua Prieta, fighting with them machine guns. Residents of Douglas fear that an attack upon the rebels, now in possession of the town, will be more disastrous to the American non-combatants than was yesterday's battle.

MUTILATED BODY OF MAN ON THE TRACKS

CHANGE TO BE MADE IN AMBASSADORSHIP TOTHE FATHERLAND

David Jayne Hill Has Resigned Post and President Taft Has Accepted Resignation—No Reason for Change Given.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, April 14.—David Jayne Hill of Rochester, N. Y., American ambassador to Germany, has resigned, and the resignation has been accepted by the President.

Neither in Hill's resignation nor in the President's letter of acceptance is there any reason given for the ambassador and his action. The President thanks Hill for his services at Berlin and says he is glad to know he will remain there until July 1st, when the resignation goes into effect.

The belief is general that Hill's resignation is in accord with the custom of past administrations to appoint new ambassadors to all important posts. Changes have been made heretofore by President Taft at all such places except Great Britain and Germany.

PRISONER ESCAPES FROM STATE PRISON

Lars Hanson, Serving Sentence in Waupun, Climbs to Liberty
Through Ventilation Shaft.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]
Waupun, April 14.—Lars Hanson, a prisoner in the state penitentiary here, last night burst open the door of his cell, climbed through a ventilation shaft to the roof of the prison and escaped untraced by prison guards. The discovery was made today. A reward of fifty dollars has been offered for his arrest. Hanson was convicted for burglary at Superior in January, 1910, for four years' sentence. He is thirty-four years old and has light brown hair, blue eyes and is smooth shaven.

Two of the federal captains who fled to the Americans for shelter were arrested, were ordered by American officers to warn the rest of the garrison to surrender.

This finally done, the firing stopped and the remainder of the garrison marched to the city across to Douglas. Lopez then took possession of the town.

Gen. Lopez said today he expects reinforcements from the Madero army of one thousand men.

WILL PUT SUFFRAGE BILL TO A VOTE

Assembly Committee Will Report
James Measure For Passage
Some Time Next Week.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]
Madison, Wis., April 14.—The assembly committee on elections this morning voted, four to three, to report for passage the James Woman's Suffrage bill, which already has passed the senate. Those dissenting were Hofstadter, Roycroft and Mahan, while Kuhn, Ludlow, Spoor and Munson voted for it. The measure will come before the assembly next week.

Changed Opinion.

"Vote for Women" struck legislative rocks today for the first time when the assembly committee on elections reconsidered the James bill after deciding to favor its passage yesterday. Assemblymen Kuhn, Ludlow, Spoor and Munson reported the measure for passage. Opposing the bill were Assemblymen Hofstadter, Roycroft, and Mahan. It is generally believed, however, the committee will favor the measure's passage and it will ultimately be passed by the assembly.

YEGGMEN ESCAPED WITH SMALL HAUL

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

The robbers secured only four dollars in money, the contents of the safe. The explosion awakened the station agent who lived nearby. Rushing out he saw the men in the act of escaping on horses. He immediately notified the sheriff at Elkhor.

LEGISLATURE WANTS TO COMPLETE WORK EARLY NEXT MONTH

Joint Resolution Introduced in Senate
Today Provides for Adjournment
Since Die on May 5.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]
Madison, April 14.—The first move looking to adjournment of the present session of the legislature was made when the senate committee on judiciary introduced a joint resolution providing for adjournment sine die on May 5th. The resolution was held over until Tuesday next. It is probable the assembly will force a late adjournment to thoroughly complete its work.

The senate passed a bill appropriating fifteen thousand dollars for the purchase of copyright to the Southern and Northern annotated statutes.

Under the present law it is provided the statutes shall be revised by state employees and it is necessary for the state to own the copyright of the former revisions. These copyrights are held at fifteen thousand dollars.

So happened who is a modest and rather sensitive young man, quietly obtained a horse at the stable, and started out to learn to ride, saying nothing to his brother officers. Returning from his first jaunt in Rock Creek Park his horse slipped on the pavement and fell. Haggard was unable to slide from the saddle, with the result that the horse boxed him over, and his eye came into violent contact with the curbstone.

Explanations were demanded at the office, and the tale was forthcoming when it reached the ears of Gen. Wood who ordered the officers out for a ride, lest the staff meet the same applied by its enemies, of "General Staff."

SEE STRENGTHENING OF THE RELATIONS

"Entente Cordiale" Between England and France Said To Be Deepening into Plan for Defensive Cooperation.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]
Paris, April 14.—It is believed here that the "Entente Cordiale" which has existed between France and England for some years, will deepen into a scheme for the defensive cooperation of not only the navies of France and England, but their armies as well. There was the start of such a thing before the retirement of M. Poincaré from the Foreign Office and now that the influence of M. Delcasse, present Minister of the Navy, may be felt, it is regarded here as imminent that such an agreement should be arrived at.

"These purporters," says "La Liberte" "cannot yet have led to the engagement by England to send her contingents to France, because of the reorganization of the British Army now going on and which was caused by the proposition." It is declared here that in order that the English army should be useful for Continental service it would need reorganization. This is being accomplished.

DEATH OF DR. KNAPP RECALLS HIS WORK

Noted Agriculturist who Died in Washington Received Signal Honors
At Madison.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison, Wis., April 14.—The death of Washington, D. C., of Dr. S. A. Knapp, one of the best known educators and agricultural promoters in the country, recalls that three winters ago Dr. Knapp was signally honored by the agricultural college of the University of Wisconsin, when he was one of the noted men selected for recognition diplomas. Dr. Knapp has been associated with the Iowa state college of agriculture, as president, and had devoted himself much to interesting the boys and girls of the south in agriculture. After retiring from active connection with educational institutions of the grain belt he became a special commissioner for the national department of agriculture, visiting the Philippines, Japan and China to report on agricultural conditions there.

ORDERED OFFICERS TO LEARN TO RIDE

Gen. Wood Has Ordered Staff to Be Prepared for Long Jaunt, Following Accident to Officer Who Could Not Ride.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]
Washington, April 14.—Following the example of his former chief and patron, President Roosevelt, Maj. Gen. Wood, head of the United States army, has ordered the members of his staff to prepare to take a long ride with him. This order is due to a black eye recently disfiguring one of his young officers, which led to the suspicion that the members of the general staff were not as proficient in horsemanship as desirable.

Major Johnson (Lawson) is responsible. He is the legislative expert of the general staff. He was recently promoted at the rank of Major and has served only with the coast and field artillery arms of the service, never having had a mount. It is a rule of the army, however, that officers of the rank of major and higher, whatever their service shall be mounted.

So happened who is a modest and rather sensitive young man, quietly obtained a horse at the stable, and started out to learn to ride, saying nothing to his brother officers. Returning from his first jaunt in Rock Creek Park his horse slipped on the pavement and fell. Haggard was unable to slide from the saddle, with the result that the horse boxed him over, and his eye came into violent contact with the curbstone.

Explanations were demanded at the office, and the tale was forthcoming when it reached the ears of Gen. Wood who ordered the officers out for a ride, lest the staff meet the same applied by its enemies, of "General Staff."

MILLIONAIRE MADE LAST GIFT TODAY

Dr. D. K. Pearson Celebrated Ninety-first Birthday by Giving Away
$300,000 To Foreign Missions.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, April 14.—Dr. D. K. Pearson, the Hinsdale Philanthropist, celebrated his ninety-first birthday today by giving away about $300,000 to the American Board of Foreign Missions and a number of small colleges or, as he called it, "paying his debts." Dr. Pearson called these gifts "debts" because in most cases the sums are fulfillments of his pledges to the institutions concerned. Today's gifts were as follows: American Board of Foreign Missions, $100,000; Berea College, Kentucky, $100,000; Doan College, Nebraska, $25,000; Northland College, Wisconsin, $10,000; Highland College, Kansas, $10,000; McKendree College, Illinois, $10,000; other small gifts, $45,000.

Today's gifts bring the total of Dr. Pearson's donations, mostly to smaller colleges, during the last twenty-five years to about $5,000,000. In practically every case the venerable philanthropist made the recipients of his bounty earn his gifts. They had to raise by their own efforts, three dollars for every dollar which Dr. Pearson contributed and the whole became an endowment fund only the income of which to be used.

In many cases Dr. Pearson pledged himself years ago to contribute certain sums to the endowment of various small colleges and he considered these pledges his "debts," which he worked off as one after another of the institutions complied with the conditions upon which his gifts depended. Today's list of donations cleans up the state of Dr. Pearson's "debts," and, as he expressed it, he will be able to lie down tonight to sleep peacefully, free of debt for the first time in many years.

The list of the colleges and other institutions which have benefited by Dr. Pearson's philanthropy, includes the following: Beloit College, Chicago Theological Seminary, Whitman College, Colorado College, Berea College, Mount Holyoke College, Lake Forest College, Knox College, Grinnell College, Yankton College, St. B. Carleton College, Fargo College, Pomona College, Fairmount College, Wichita, Kansas, McCormick Theological Seminary, Pacific University, Forest Grove, Ore., Illinois College, Jacksonville, Ill.; Olivet College, Michigan; Marietta College, Michigan; Marietta College, Sheridan College, Wyoming; McKendree College, California; Antiochia College, Turkey; Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.; Montpelier Seminary, Vermont; Guilford College, Greensboro, N. C.; Piedmont College, Washington College, Tennessee; Grand University, Chattanooga, West Virginia Seminary, Morgantown; Parkville College, Parkville, Mo., and others.

Good Friday in Gotham.

New York, April 14.—New York today observed Good Friday in accordance with established custom. Special services were held in many of the churches, with elaborate musical programs as one of the chief features. The New York Stock Exchange and the other leading exchanges were closed and will not resume business until Monday.

One of the distinctive features of the day that could scarcely escape the eye of even the most casual observer was the large consumption of hot cross buns by all classes of the metropolis. This custom of English origin has gained a most surprising foothold in New York in recent years. The demand upon the bakers for hot cross buns by year until this season, so local statisticians have computed, several million were eaten by New Yorkers yesterday and today.

Arbor Day in Oregon.

Salem, Ore., April 14.—Arbor Day was generally observed throughout Oregon today by the planting of trees and flowers and with special exercises in many of the public schools and colleges.

CORN SYRUP BILL WAS RECOMMENDED OUT FOR PASSAGE

Fisher's Committee Reports Favorably
On "Glucose" Bill and Big Fight
Is Expected—"Dry Zone"

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., April 14.—The Perry bill, No. 518A, which is to amend the 1907 laws so that corn syrup can be again called by that name, will probably be recommended for passage in the assembly by the committee of which Grant U. Fisher is chairman. This provides the basis for what probably will be one of the bitterest fights of the session, as the measure is strenuously opposed by Dairy and Food Commissioners Emery, and that official is strongly backed in both houses. The constitutionality of the law under which Commissioners Emery has excluded this product from the state is now pending before the United States supreme court, having been upheld a year ago by the Wisconsin supreme court.

"Dry Zone" Killed.

The house committee on excise and taxes has decided, with Chairman Hull and Assemblyman Ellingson dissenting, to report out the Axel Johnson bill to oust the saloons from Madison and to create a "dry zone" of one mile around each state normal and county agricultural school, minus the amendments of a five-mile dry zone in Madison and for the extension of the present half-mile limit to one mile, as it was originally introduced—for indefinite postponement. The pro and con saloon controversy therefore will be transferred to the assembly floor next week, unless the matter is made a special order for some later date, which is possible. Chairman Hull had hoped to be able to report out the "dry zone" substitute, even though it be for killing, in order to get that question directly before the house, as that substitute eliminated the rest of the state and would center the consideration on the question of driving the saloons out of Madison.

Gettle Bill.

The committee also decided to report for passage the Gettle bill requiring district attorneys to make investigation of complaints of violations of the excise laws, with an amendment limiting these complaints to those which are made in writing.

The Hansen bill prohibiting the use of liquor by students of the state university, which was inspired by the arguments on the dry-zone bill, will be taken up by the committee next Tuesday, but it probably will not be reported out until the other measure is finally disposed of.

Regulation of Board Gives Chance For Friends of "Dual Purpose" System To Unsettle It.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., April 14.—The question whether the agricultural college should permit the re-introduction of dual-purpose cattle in the college herds is arousing some Wisconsin dairymen, and a meeting was called Wednesday afternoon at the college to discuss the subject. Reports of a "hot" proceedings characterize it as a "hot" session, and extreme frankness marked the various talks given. It is said that following the meeting, W. D. Hoard was instrumental, as a recent, four years ago, in launching the dual-purpose cattle idea to attempt to relate state that class of stock.

Prominent among the advocates of this movement is James Martin, one of the university regents, himself a breeder of dual-purpose cattle. On the other side the faculty's principal advocates of the Hoard plan is Prof. George G. Humphrey.

No action was taken at the meeting, but it is said another meeting will be called.

Refrigerators

THE ALASKA THEORY.

The Alaska, by its perfect system of warm and cold air flues, allows nature's principles—that warm air rises and cold air falls—to work in a more perfect manner than any other refrigerator built. No other system keeps the air so long in contact with the ice as the ALASKA does, consequently the Alaska does its work more thoroughly than any other refrigerator. Be sure to see us when you are ready to buy.

EXHIBITION WORK BY HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS

Girls' Gymnasium Classes Under the Direction of Miss Cuyler Gave an Exhibition Last Evening.

Calisthenics, as taught in the local high school by Miss Cuyler, was exhibited to the public last night at the high school auditorium. The exhibition was given by the freshmen girls who take the work regularly, and the upper classes who have a voluntary class. Many of the girls were unable to take part because of their church services, but in all about eighty were in the drill.

They first drilled and marched with great precision, keeping time with the music. Then the upper class girls broke ranks and the freshmen gave a waltz-drill which was received by the audience with hearty applause. Following this the freshmen gave the native dance of a foreign nation.

Next, the upper classmen gave a dumbbell-drill which was very good. Following this, the freshmen again came out and gave an exhibition with the Indian-club, which was very good. After this a game of basketball was played between the freshmen and upper-class girls. The game was not that of regular basketball, but of a less strenuous nature. This, the freshmen won, getting one more basket in the allotted time than the Uppers.

MY ORGANIZE A BASEBALL TEAM AT BUSINESS COLLEGE

Students of Southern Wisconsin Business College Will Hold Meeting Tonight to Discuss Plans.

Steps were taken yesterday toward the organization of a baseball team among the students at the Southern Wisconsin Business college. A meeting of the students was held to decide whether it would be possible to get together enough material to put a nine in the field. The proposition was enthusiastically supported and a committee of two members, Willie McDonald and Alvin Peterson, was named to go among the students to determine if there is sufficient material to organize a team and what the sentiment of the students is. This committee will report at a meeting at four o'clock this afternoon. Harry DeWitt was elected as temporary captain until a nine is organized. Brown Business college of Rockford has challenged the local school to a game.

Canadian Swimming Championships. Montreal, April 11.—The speediest swimmers of the Dominion are entered in the Canadian swimming championships, which are scheduled for decision tonight and tomorrow night in the tank of the Montreal Athletic Association. The program provides for the following events: 40 yards, 100 yards, 220 yards, 440 yards, diving, and 100-yard relay race for teams of four men each.

Outlook Bright at Churchill Downs. Louisville, Ky., April 11.—Every succeeding day is adding to the number of thoroughbred horses that are being stabled at Churchill Downs in anticipation of the opening there of the spring meeting of the Louisville Jockey Club. The number of entries this year eclipses all previous records and has led the officials of the association to predict one of the most successful meetings that has taken place hereabouts in a long time. Nearly one thousand horses are now quartered at the track, including the cream of those that took part in the meetings in the South the past winter. Pari-mutuel machines will be used at Churchill Downs again this year. Twenty-one machines will be put in operation and it is said they will be much superior to those used last year.

Southern Trip for Crimson Athletes. Cambridge, Mass., April 11.—The Harvard University track team, consisting of twenty men, together with coaches, managers and trainers, left today for an extensive trip through the South. The first few days will be spent in Baltimore, where the team will use the Johns Hopkins field for training purposes. The principal event of the trip will be a dual meet with the Naval Academy at Annapolis one week from tomorrow.

JOIN THIS GREAT PIANO CLUB NOW

Have the Piano Sent Home Any Time You Wish--in a Month or Even in Two Months

We mean by this, that you do not have to have your piano delivered now, if you join the Skavlem piano club now. You can join the club today and have the piano delivered next week or next month.

The point is—if you want to join the SKAVLEM Piano Club, you must do so soon. If you would share in its many advantages, economies and privileges, you must send in or bring in your application now.

The only way to take advantage of the Skavlem piano club privileges to make your home a happy one is to join the club right away.

You can pay your $5.00, the initial fee. We will give you a receipt for it.

If you want your piano delivered right away your weekly payments of 1 dollar and 25 cents will start RIGHT AWAY. If you DON'T want your piano delivered until NEXT MONTH your weekly payments will not start until NEXT MONTH.

Your weekly payments will NOT START until you want your piano delivered, whether that is next month, or in two months.

On the other hand, you may, however, KEEP UP YOUR WEEKLY PAYMENTS JUST AS THOUGH THE PIANO HAD BEEN DELIVERED, and still not have it sent out until some time later.

For instance: Suppose you join the club TODAY, but instructed us not to deliver the piano until next month—but you kept on paying and paying every week just as though the piano had been sent out the day after you joined the club—you would have paid in the next little sum of 26 dollars and 25 cents on the piano by the time it was sent out and in all likelihood would never have missed the money. The same thing applies to those who want to go away on vacations. You can join the club BEFORE YOU GO—and start your weekly payments WHEN YOU RETURN—or whenever you want your piano delivered. Send in or bring in your application TODAY—DON'T PUT IT OFF.

For the convenience of people who cannot come in during the day the store will be open every evening until 10 o'clock.

Read Every Word of This

These pianos are made by good German labor in the factory of one of the best piano manufacturing plants in the world. The cases are made of the selected mahogany, walnut and quartered oak. The inside is of bird's eye maple. The keys are of genuine ivory. The strings are of the best imported German wire. The action is of the best type—very carefully regulated by as competent workmen as there are in the piano trade. Our knowledge of the instrument is based on an experience running back over a dozen years—not on faith or hearsay—and it is from that experience we are willing to give the unreserved, unconditional guarantee that we do, the equal of which has never before been given on any piano, it matters not what its merits. These pianos are worth $375. The club price is $277.50—thus saving you $97.50. The terms are $5.00 cash and $1.25 a week. There is positively no interest added.

ARMIES OF INDUSTRY.

Among the interesting facts revealed by the last census, the figures dealing with the "gainful occupations" probably afford the best possible opportunities for realizing the enormous forward strides made by American industries in the past decade. With approximately 20,000,000 workers enrolled under the industrial standard, including the tillers of the soil, it may cause some surprise that this force of people is six times as great as all the military armies in the world. Even the maximum war footing of eight of the great powers does not exceed the number of productive workers in the United States.

The standing army of industrialism in this country now includes 800,000 workers in steel and kindred trades. It may be now to many that all the navies of the world have only half that number of men enrolled. Again the combined armies of Great Britain and Japan are 700,000 strong, equal to the number of carpenters at work in the United States.

The census report brings the information that 1,000,000 bookkeepers, accountants and clerks, not including salespeople and stenographers, are kept busy in this country. The total population of Idaho, Delaware, Arizona, Wyoming, Nevada and Alaska is no greater. These are the states and territories still waiting for their full development through settlement. The 1,000,000 bookkeepers could be placed within these commonwealths and yet make scarcely an impression, as far as elbow room is concerned.

But there is only a small standing army in the United States. As for Europe, it is an interesting speculation how it could solve the problem if suddenly, under a program of disarmament, its thousands of soldiers should be sent to their homes. Not all at once, of course, could proper adjustment be made. Where it has taken years to build up standing armies of the present proportions it would naturally prove somewhat trying to meet the new conditions that would be brought to bear on European industrialism. It is with this thought in view that those favoring partial disarmament are now laboring. They realize that great caution would have to be exercised, or the European body politic would find it difficult to stand the strain. The prospective new industrial army of Europe can be handled best if disarmament be gradual.

Fortunately for the United States no such problem confronts the nation. The national defenders are now working at their peaceful tasks. The state military organizations seem a sufficient force, ready at a moment's notice to rise to the occasion. Here industrialism is primary, military the secondary consideration. The growth of the country can be explained in no better way than by referring to those 20,000,000 workers that make up "the gainful occupations" of the United States.

TODAY'S MEMORY.

Fifty years ago today the North was aroused by the word that Sumner had fallen, that the great struggle between the North and South had really begun. Today, also one of the notable anniversaries of important events connected with the history of the Civil War period in this country, is the forty-sixth anniversary of the assassination of President Abraham Lincoln, who was shot and mortally wounded at Ford's theatre by John Wilkes Booth, an actor, while attending a performance of "Our American Cousin," on the evening of April 14, 1865. In commemoration of the day the flags on all public buildings were at half-mast all day and commemorative services were held by many of the patriotic societies.

The bloody sectional struggle between the North and the South had just been ended by the surrender of General Lee and the country was rejoicing over the conclusion of the Civil war which had cost so many precious lives and enormous sacrifices of money. President Lincoln had been busy all day. In the morning he had a long conference with his son, Capt. Lincoln, in the course of which he dissuaded him from continuing a military career. Later in the forenoon the President attended the last meeting of his cabinet. All the members of the cabinet were present on that occasion, excepting Mr. Seward, the secretary of state, who had broken his jaw by a fall from his horse. His seat was occupied by Gen. Grant. The terms of Lee's surrender were discussed and approved and President Lincoln strongly expressed himself against any harsh measures in the South.

During the afternoon the President received many visitors and when the evening came, he was tired and would have liked to rest, but he did not wish to disappoint the crowds at the theatre and, accompanied by the members of his family, occupied the stage box, especially decorated for the occasion. It was after the close of the first act that Booth fired the fatal shot and escaped during the indescribable excitement following his deed. Lincoln was carried to a tailor shop opposite the theatre and there died early the following morning.

MAYOR CARLE.

The term of office of Mayor Wilbur F. Carle as chief executive of the city of Janesville is drawing to a close. During the two years he has been in office the city has progressed. No man in the mayor's chair over tried as hard as has Mr. Carle to do what he considered right and best for the city he had been called upon to govern. An earnest and business-like official, he steps down from his seat into everyday life again, with the assurance from his constituents that his work has been most satisfactory. Unfortunate circumstances relative to the best interests of the city were handled in a clear, business-like manner and had Mr. Carle had the backing of all departments of the city's government his watchword of "Obey the Law" might have been the slogan for a bigger and better Janesville. Mr. Carle's term of mayor has left its impression upon the city, and his retirement into private life must give him the satisfaction of knowing that he tried to do his whole duty as he saw it, which is all that can be asked of any efficient city official.

The placing of what is called "half-lights" in many dark localities in the wards have proved a good thing, and if some of the present big are lights were divided it would be a better idea yet. The more lights you can get the better it will be for the city.

The development of the Boy Scouts organization for Janesville would solve many serious problems that confront the parents today. Why does not some organization take the matter up.

It is about time that something definite was done about the Racine street bridge bond question. The bridge should be built and it should be decided whether the bonds are any good or not by this time.

Evidently the Wisconsin legislature is not as filled with wild-eyed agitators as one would be led to suppose. Some good legislation is being reported out.

The city public schools close today for a week's holiday. The teachers are glad, so are the students; but the rest of the public—well, guess the answer.

Talking of streets, what about that Center avenue case? It is up to the council to take some action, it would appear to the man up a tree.

A rake and a hoe agitated briskly at spuro moments is the best medicine in the world for spring fever. Try it and note results.

Now is the time for the golfers to begin their real work preparing for the summer's campaign.

Witness, the lumberman, might be said to be on the fast train bound for the "back to the woods" region.

Now comes the Easter bonnet crisis in many a household. Sunday will see the gala display.

April never gives a guaranty with its weather. This is a good thing to remember.

PRESS COMMENT.

The Necessary Gag.
Oshkosh Northwestern: Es-Speak or Cannon insists the Democrats will find the gag rule more and more necessary as they go along. Which possibly means that Uncle Joe and his friends are planning to make all the trouble possible.

Here's To Him.
Marquette Enquirer: If the dose of peace continues to have over the new born republic of Portugal until the middle of May, they will elect a president and parliament. Here's success to the aspiring infant.

What's the Use.
Monroe Times: If you can buy senate seats merely by fixing it so that none of the goods will be found in the senator's pocket, the laws against bribery might as well be repealed.

Helping Hands.
Sheboygan Journal: Col. Roosevelt is expected to say something at Madison Saturday regarding Senator La Follette's candidacy for president. As the colored says he doesn't want the place himself, he ought to do the hand-some thing by the Wisconsin senator, who is trying to accomplish the same things in another way.

And A Toothpick.
Chicago Tribune: Champ Clark's luncheon, according to the correspondents, consists of a glass of water, a glass of milk, a cup of tea, and a piece of pie. That seems a light repast for a large man. Could he not add a lady finger, a macaroon, or a graham cracker?

Emil To The Woods.
Rockford Republic: Worn out with criticism Mayor Sedel of Milwaukee, has left for parts unknown to acquire rest. The Socialist executive is unfortunate in living in an age when the world refuses to accept his ideas.

See What They Drew.
Madison State Journal: Primary reform does not always reform. Chicago spent three quarters of a million dollars on the morality primaries, not to include what was spent on the election, and finally drew Carter H. Harrison out of the chaos.

Valuable Acquaintance.
Milwaukee Free Press: Grasp the amateur gardener warmly by the hand, for his acquaintanceship may prove to be valuable along about vegetable time.

PROPERTY AND LOTS AT NEW YARDS SOLD

Hotel and Lots Adjoining of South Janesville Improvement Company Purchased by Croak Brewing Company.

The hotel and real estate property of the South Janesville Improvement company has been disposed of by that company to the Croak Brewing company of this city. The property comprises the three-story red-brick hotel building and adjoining lots, thirty-two rods in length and eight rods wide. The hotel is now used as a hotel for railroad men. The upper story has never been completed, but a cement walk has been laid in front of the hotel and around the lot. The hotel was built several years ago, about the time the new Northwestern yards were laid out, when it was expected the road would increase the amount of work at the new yards and make it necessary for more men to remain near there. The sale is subject to a lease held by the present management of the hotel. Messrs. William and Frank Croak, members of the Croak Brewing company, have not announced their plans as to what disposal will be made of the property. The purchase price is not given.

FOUR DAY MISSION COMES TO A CLOSE

Last Night Brought To Close Successful Mission Conducted By Rev. Heldman of Indiana At St. Patrick's.

One of the most successful missions ever carried on in this city closed last night at St. Patrick's church upon the occasion of the last evening of a retreat for young ladies, conducted by Rev. George Heldman of Rensselaer, Indiana. The retreat has been going on for the past four days and have been conducted both morning and evening. Over five hundred young women have taken advantage of the meetings and both in attendance and good accomplishment, the results have been most gratifying.

The church was crowded to its capacity last night and as many as one hundred were turned away as there was not room enough for them. Rev. Heldman, during the course of the mission delivered some very interesting talks to the young women, the subjects being of a doctrinal nature.

Rev. Heldman who is a member of the Order of the Precious Blood in his state, is a very accomplished man and a good speaker. All who heard him during the past week are united in saying that his ability as a speaker and scholar is very high. Besides carrying on his regular duties he is a contributor to "The Messenger", a Catholic paper and his works are thought highly of.

That practical work is being done by the students of the high school in the botany classes is shown by the program which was given by the members of the classes this morning. The work on fungi had recently been completed and today each member presented a topic of his own choosing within the general limits of that subject. Some of the subjects, which are given below, show the nature of the work which is being done and the improvement over former methods of handling botany work in which the esthetic side was emphasized.

PATRICK DELANEY ARRAIGNED TODAY

Father of Man Charged With Burglary Brought Into Court Today For Drunkenness.

Several days of "high life" enjoyed by Patrick Delaney, father of Henry Delaney, who is out of jail on his own recognizance pending his retrial, terminated in a cell at the city lock-up and Delaney, Sr., was brought into court this morning, charged with drunkenness. Delaney was arrested last night in his own home where the police were called by members of the family who wearied of the man's disposition. In court this morning Delaney made a plea to be released and allowed to go home, solemnly swearing to take the pledge if given his freedom. The judge, however, deemed it advisable to give Delaney a chance to sober up, and sentenced him to five days flat, promising, however, to suspend sentence if Delaney would take the pledge after he was sober.

William Kelly of Pennsylvania, who came here from Champaign, Ill., and has been working about the city, was brought up on the same charge. Kelly's labors were ended for the time being by the rain yesterday and sought a saloon to rest up to resume his labors when the weather became more element. He also "figured up" to a considerable extent and was "picked up" by the police. He pleaded guilty to the charge and asked leniency. The judge fixed a fine of $1 and costs or $2, and Kelly pulled out his pocket-book to get the money. He had a two dollar bill, which would have liquidated his debt to the municipality, but after gazing at it, changed his mind with regard to paying the fine and took the five day sentence in jail, imposed as an alternative for the fine.

Home-Made Gas Light From Crushed Stone

Twenty Years Ago the Oil Lamp Had Already Been Driven Out of the City Into the Country Where Gas Could Not Follow—So We Thought

In those days we would have laughed at the idea of a country home lighted with gas light. But like the telephone and free mail, delivery, gas light has finally left the city to become a common rural convenience.

In the year 1911 the up-to-date villager or farmer not only lives in a gas lighted house, same as his city cousin but when he drives home on a cold, wet night he actually lights his barn, his barnyard or the porches on his house by simply pressing an "ignition" button on a post or wall.

And this change seems quite like magic when you consider that this rural gas light is home made—made by the family themselves right on the premises.

Take fifteen minutes once a month to make all that can be used in a large house.

The magic is all in the curious manufactured stone known commercially as Carbide.

This wonderful gas production substance, Carbide, looks and feels just like crushed granite. For country home use it is packed and shipped from warehouses located all over the country in sheet steel cans.

Carbide won't burn, can't explode and will keep in the original package for years in any climate. For this reason it is safer to handle and store about the premises than coal.

All that Carbide requires to give up its gas is to mix it with plain water—the gas, which is then instantly generated, is genuine Acetylene.

When piped to handsome brass fixtures and chandeliers, Acetylene burns with an intensely brilliant, stiff flame that wind can't affect.

This flame makes light so white in color that it is commonly called "Artificial Sunlight."

Experiments conducted by Cornell University have proven that it will grow plants the same as sunlight itself. Physicians recommend Acetylene as a germicide and a remedy for eyestrain and it is used as an illuminant in fifty-four hospitals in New York City alone.

Then, too, Acetylene is so pure you might blow out the light and sleep all night with the burner open without any injurious effects.

On account of its being burned in permanent brass fixtures attached to the walls and ceilings Acetylene is much safer than smoky, smelly oil lamps, which can be easily tipped over.

For this reason the engineers of the National Board of Insurance Underwriters called Acetylene safer than any illuminant it commonly displaces.

In addition to all these advantages Acetylene light is inexpensive.

An Acetylene light of 24-candle power costs only about 4 cents for 10 hours' lighting, while for the same number of hours regular oil lamps of equal volume cost about 6 cents in kerosene, chimneys and wicks, on the average.

Consider this carefully and you will hardly wonder at the fact that there are no less than 185,000 homes in town and country today lighted with Acetylene.

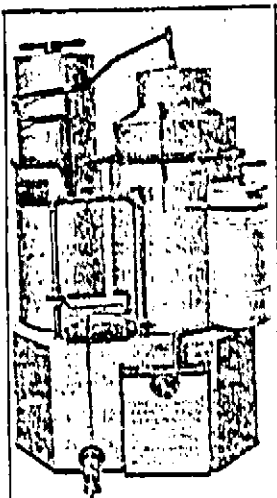

Once a month some member of the family must dump a few pounds of Carbide in the generator (see illustration), which usually sets in one corner of the basement.

This little machine is automatic—it does all the work—it makes no gas until the burners are lighted and stops making gas when the burners are shut off.

The lights located in every room in your house, on your porches, in your horse and cow barns, or barnyards and chicken yards, if you like, will all be ready to turn on with a twist of the wrist or a touch of a button at any time of the day or night.

No city home can be as brilliantly or as beautifully illuminated as any one of these 185,000 homes now using Acetylene.

The "Illinois" Carbide Feed Generator, the Most Perfect Generator For Acetylene Production

LEADING FEATURES OF THE "ILLINOIS" CARBIDE FEED GENERATORS

Compact form, simplicity of construction, few working parts, no complicated mechanism, automatic in all its workings, economy in operation, fixed charge of carbide, absolutely safeguarded, no after generation, durability, thoroughly tested before leaving factory, protected by National Board of Underwriters, protected by patents.

It is conceded by all authorities that the best method of producing Acetylene is by a Carbide Feed Generator, and careful tests have proven conclusively that 14x12 Carbide yields the maximum amount of gas.

The "Illinois" is constructed in a most workmanlike manner of the highest grade galvanized sheet steel, double seamed and riveted and every machine is thoroughly tested before leaving the factory.

The "Illinois" is examined and tested by the Underwriters' laboratories and is made in accordance with the requirements of the National Board of Fire Underwriters and is on their approved list and can be installed in buildings without affecting the insurance on same.

Mollesan, the distinguished French chemist, said in 1896, with reference to generators, as follows: "The ideal apparatus, which I think does not exist, consists of a gas holder containing an excess of water into which a fragment of carbide of known weight falls automatically at the desired moment. The weight of the carbide should be such that it will fill the gas holder with gas without producing an excess."

The "Illinois" Generator fills these requirements in every particular.

The safety and reliability of a generator depends upon the feeding mechanism. The "Illinois" generator is the perfection of simplicity and positiveness in its action. It is governed in its feeding by a gasometer.

No valves are used as they are unreliable.

It feeds a fixed charge of Carbide only when needed to replace in the gasometer the gas which has been consumed at the burners.

It can never overfeed or deliver more than a fixed charge as when the carbide fills the scoop ready to feed it closes the mouth of the hopper and as the scoop drops the carbide the hopper closes again automatically.

The feed device is constructed of the best grade of Galvanized Steel thorough reinforced.

"Illinois" Generators, including the feed mechanism are fully covered by patents.

If you are tired of bad, uncertain light and paying for something you never get Acetylene will release you.

"Illinois" Electric Lighters do away with the use of lanterns and matches and the attendant danger.

You can have all the convenience in the way of light that may be had with either gas or electricity and have it at a much less cost.

With the "Illinois" Carbide Feed Generator to furnish the gas and the "Illinois" Electric Lighters to furnish light for the same you have the best money can buy. You have all the conveniences of electricity minus the excess cost.

If you want to be up-to-date, enjoy modern conveniences and keep the young folks at home, write us how many rooms and buildings you have. We will send you free an intensely interesting lot of facts, figures and booklets. Just address

OBITUARY.

Francis M. Smalley.
Funeral services for the late Francis M. Smalley were held this morning at half past ten from the home of his daughter, Mrs. Elbert Hill, 209 Oakland avenue, Rev. L. A. McIntyre officiating. The remains were taken to Milton Junction and services were held in the Methodist church of that place at two o'clock this afternoon. Interment was made in the cemetery there.

Mrs. Henrietta Schultz.

Mrs. Henrietta Schultz passed away this morning shortly before five o'clock at her home in the town of Rock. She died very peacefully and a long and useful life came to a close, with the members of the family at her bedside.
Mrs. Schultz was over seventy-six years of age and had been a resident of the town of Rock since 1881. She had many friends there and was beloved by all who knew her. Her husband passed away fifteen years ago. She leaves six sons and one daughter, Fred Schultz of this city; Louis, of Evanston, Ill.; Henry, residing near Beloit; William, south of this city; Paul, of Ladd, Ill.; Charles, who lives on the home farm; and Mrs. Fred Rehfeld of the town of Rock. The funeral will be held from the late home on Monday and interment will be made in the Afton cemetery.

Thomas Dooley.

Thomas Dooley went to his reward last evening at eight forty-five, passing away at his home in the town of Spring Valley, and entered into the peace and rest of the life everlasting. His death came as the result of a paralytic stroke which he suffered last Saturday morning. He was conscious after the first stroke and was able to make his desires known to his family, but it was very evident that the end was drawing near.
Mr. Dooley was born in County Clare, Ireland, March 4, 1842, and had been a resident of Rock county for over forty years. He leaves five children to mourn his death who have the sympathy of the entire community in their time of bereavement. The deceased was highly esteemed by all who knew him and their grief is sincere at the loss of so respected a citizen.

He also leaves one sister, Mrs. Michael Fahy of Belleville, and four brothers—Richard, James and Edward Dooley of Monticello, and John Dooley of this city. The funeral services will be held Monday at ten o'clock from St. Augustine's church at Postville. A solemn high mass will be celebrated and interment will be in Mt. Olivet cemetery at Janesville.

ENGLISH "Slip-ons" are achieving popularity, because of their splendid merit—they're the first storm coats that are neat as well as protective. You'll find here the largest stock in Janesville, priced $7 to $15.

REHBERG'S

HIGH Button Tan Boots. The demand has been tremendous; it taxed us to keep up with it. However, we have a shipment, just in time for the Easter season, in yesterday. You'll find this shoe interesting, at $3.50.

WE wonder if you realize your fullest powers—you're a "season-maker" as much as nature herself is. The first crocus or the first spring robin aren't nearly as important evidences of spring as the first spring suit or the first spring overcoat. We're ready to outfit some hundreds of "season-makers"—outfit them as they would be outfitted. And it makes no difference how precise or exacting their demands may be, we take particular joy in serving the man who refuses to be satisfied with anything short of the attainable best. You're very likely a man of that sort; you wouldn't be reading this advertisement if you weren't. Here's the facts:

At $15 the price the average store slights, we've put in some of our very best "licks." The man who buys a $15 suit or overcoat here gets a garment that will satisfy from the first day he judges it for style to the last day he judges it for wear. Sizes 33 to 50. You'll be satisfied.

At $20 you can let your choosing run riot. You aren't hampered by having your choice narrowed down to a few garments. There are hundreds of suits and overcoats in our $20 range; not one of them was put there until we were satisfied that it would satisfy you. Sizes 33 to 48.

At $25 you'll see a display of suits and overcoats that is a fitting demonstration of this store's success. You'll find silk lined garments that satisfy every requirement of the man who isn't usually satisfied unless he pays far more. And with our customary thoroughness, you'll find every size from 33 to 48 stouts, regulars and slims.

At $30 you'll realize the fallacy of the tailor habit—graphically. You'll find finer fabrics, newer models, handsomer patterns and more pleasing colors than you ever thought possible to secure at the price. But descriptions are so inadequate and inspection so convincing that we advise seeing them tomorrow. Sizes 35 to 42.

THIS is a young men's store that doesn't believe in showing older men's apparel in young men's sizes. Our young men's stocks are selected with the express purpose of giving young men a clothes individuality of their own. $10 to $25.

BECAUSE a man's trousers are but a third of a man's suit, some stores don't give them more than third-rate attention. Not so here; they get all the attention we know how to give them. Men's and young men's trousers, $3 to $7.

SPRING HATS

Scrutinize that winter hat of yours the next time you doff it; then if inspection isn't pleasing leave the rest to us. We're ready with an assemblage of styles that's complete. First of all we'd like to show you the new Longley Hats, stiff shapes. $3.00, $2.50. Or if you prefer soft hats the Longley at $2.50 and $3.00 are splendid; other soft hats at $1.00 and $1.50.

FURNISHINGS

"More than I ever had to choose from before" a customer told us the other day. He was quite right, it's our largest display and our displays always have been large. Narrow four-in-hands or wide ones, with flowing ends; solid colors, self figures or diagonal stripes. White wash ties at 25c. Soft cuff shirts; Russia cord madras and French pattern shirts $1.00, $1.50, and $2.00.

Men's Shoes and Oxfords

You would not have the advantage of selecting your Spring Shoes or Oxfords from the greatest stock in Janesville if we hadn't been thinking of your needs months ago.

We planned for this to be the biggest week's business in our history. The result is we're ready with everything a man needs in Shoes.

New tans, dull black calf or patent leathers, the newest of stunning styles for the smart chaps, and hundreds of staple conservative shapes; we can fit any man's ideas—any pair of feet.

The models most in demand, at $3.50 and $4.00.

Ladies' Shoes and Oxfords

The dainty feminine note is strikingly evident in the New Spring Shoes and Oxfords, the beauty and variety of which have never been surpassed.

Exclusive women will find each design a beauty of workmanship and finish, and will pronounce them all unequalled in style and cut.

The high button boot is much in evidence this spring; our welt sole button boots in white and brown are decidedly smart.

Pumps and Oxfords in new models. Pumps with no straps are correct; in cravannes, suedes, black, brown and all staple leathers $3.00 and $3.50.

WILL OF GOD IN OUR LIVESBy REV. J. W. LOVING
Pastor of Tenth Ave. Baptist Church
Houston, Texas

TEXT—For that, ye ought to say, "If the Lord will, we shall live, and do this or that."—James IV, 15.

The central thought of this chapter is that the root of all worldliness is pride, arrogance of heart towards God, and that the only remedy is to submit one's self to God, to humble one's self in the sight of God. The spirit of worldliness here takes the specific form of presumptuous confidence in the future, calculating on time to come without reference to the providence of God, as if the future were in our hands.

The writer tells us that we ought to say that if it be God's will we shall do so and so. He is pleading that God's will shall have the right of way even in our planning. One can not but recall the subject of one of Horace Bushnell's great sermons on "Every man's life a plan of God." It has not been my privilege to read that particular sermon, nor do I know just the text of it. There are three great sayings coming from three several men that will furnish our divisions for this morning's discourse.

1. Prince Albert, consort of the late Queen Victoria, used to say: "Find out the plan of God in your generation, and then beware lest you cross that plan or fail to find your own place in it." All true life has a divine plan. "It is not in man that walketh to direct his steps."

For a moment let your thoughts run back over your life. Many of us will go back to the quiet country place, far from the maddening crowd. It seemed at the time very uneventful and commonplace. Often you caught visions and grew a bit restless for a larger life. At length the time came when you started forth. Now it may not be that you have seriously longed to go back and bury yourself, as you used to say, in that retired sphere again. But have not the disappointments, disenchantments, revelations of life caused you to appreciate more highly the care-free conditions of that earlier life?

Oh, thrice happy you were when you had others to decide for you, when it was yours just to obey them that had authority over you. Do you think it a mere accident, or even incident, that your lot was thus cast? Nay, was it not rather God's good providence, His great plan in your life? His own hand has guided you, His power kept you. He has been your shield and buckler, your defense on the right hand and on the left your reward and your all conquering leader.

Don't you believe that had you earlier recognized the good hand of your God upon you and submitted your life and all to Him your life had not only been more fruitful of good, but incomparably happier, too? Let us catch up the words of Prince Albert and try to find out the plan of God in our generation. True there is no variability in God. He is over the same. And yet we know that the work of this generation is not just that of the Apostolic age; not just that of Luther's day. We are living in an age of unrest, of new adjustments and alignments. Men are straining to "adapt" things. More than one man even in this land of ours are trying to evolve a new religion.

Some of the features of these new religions call on us to find God's plan for His plan, all miraculous power, all authority, all restraint is eliminated. So we need to ask for the old parts, and to raise the warning voice to try to lead others into the plain, which is yet the narrow, but living way, the only way. More and more is there a call to stand for God and to illustrate in individual lives what God does in, through and with the life surrendered to Him. In the face of the widespread feeling of unrest and uncertainty, let us exhibit that rest which Jesus gives and which we find in obedience to Him by taking His yoke and learning from Him.

2. Pastor Monod used to say, "Our work is but a segment in the great sphere of God's eternal work, and if we have eyes to see we may read in that portion of his work which belongs to us our name and the date of the present year." This is another way of saying that the work of the Christian is to do God's work, and that each worker as an individual is known to God and has a particular place in God's plan. Doesn't this give great dignity and value to our work? It must partake of the priceless value, the high quality of God himself, for it is a part of his own work which he assigned to us as individuals to do.

3. Constantine when marking out the bounds of Constantinople, being told that the city would never fill out so vast an area, replied: "I am following him who is leading me." We may not here pause to discuss the Christianity of the great emperor, save only to say that he was astute and angelic enough to adopt it as a plank in his political platform. But the point before us is submission to God's leading. Again and again does the call of the master bid us follow him. Only God-led lives tell most for humanity. Too often with us it is not a question of knowing, so much as one of doing, the Lord's will. With many of us the trouble is that we have not felt the cost of following Jesus enough to give us the highest appreciation of him.

TERCENTENARY OF ENGLISH BIBLE

WILL BE OBSERVED AND CELEBRATED BY CHURCHES OF JAMESVILLE.

IMPORTANCE TO PROGRESS

Anniversary of Putting into English of Bible Marked by Fitting Ceremony in This Country and in England.

The English Bible Tercentenary, the great event in the history of Anglo-Saxon civilization and nations progress, has just been celebrated by all sections of the Protestant church in Great Britain, and they have united in requesting the churches in America and Canada to celebrate the same, occurring on Sunday, April 23. This has been agreed upon, and in common with the English speaking world the churches of Jamesville will make preparations for celebrating the translation of the Book of Books into the mother tongue of the common people.

In order that our readers may get some idea of the vast importance attached to the event we select a few of the leading events of the Bible doings, showing how the king and prime minister, the American Ambassador and President Taft regarded the occasion. It would appear that the latter won more distinguished consideration for his task, and noble utterance on the value of the translation of the Bible as a moral and civic factor in modern progress than he did in his previous message to Britain on international arbitration.

On Tuesday the King received at Buckingham Palace, in connection with the tercentenary of the Authorized Version, a deputation representing the various Christian churches in the kingdom. The Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishop of London, the Bishop of Southwark, Rev. Charles Brown (President of the National Free Church Council), Rev. C. Silverton (President of the National Evangelical Alliance), Rev. J. Hornbrook (President of the Wesleyan Methodist Conference), Rev. S. S. Henshaw (President of the Primitive Methodist Conference), Bishop Hesse (President of the Moravian Church).

An address signed by the two Archbishops, several Bishops, the heads of all the Churches, University Theological Professors, the High Commissioners of the Colonies, the Lord Mayor of London, the Presidents of the Royal Society and the Royal College of Surgeons, survivors of the translators of the Revised Version and other representative public men, was read by the Prime Minister, and presented to His Majesty. The address referred to the inestimable blessings bestowed on the English speaking people by the translation of the Bible into our mother tongue and its influence in the moulding of our national life. Along with the address a specially bound copy of the Authorized Version was presented to the King. It is a large octavo volume, bound in purple velvet with silver mounts. The binding reproduces that of James I's copy of "Meditation on the Lord's Prayer," preserved in the British Museum Library. Inside the cover is printed the inscription:

"Presented to His Majesty King George V. by the members of the deputation received by His Majesty on the occasion of the celebration of the tercentenary of the authorized version of the English Bible."

The Marquis of Northampton presented the volume to the King, who, after the reading of the address, replied in these words:

"It has given me great pleasure to receive this deputation, and to learn that it represents the joint celebration by the English-speaking peoples of the issue of 1611 of that world-famous translation of the Bible into our tongue which has since been known as the Authorized Version."

The happily chosen words of the address which your Grace has read bring home to us all the profound importance of that event. The labours of the translators and of my ancestor King James I., who directed and watched over their undertaking, deserve to be held in lasting honour.

This glorious and memorable achievement, coming like a bright light in darkness, gave freely to the whole English-speaking people the right and the power to search for themselves for the truths and consolations of our faith, and during 300 years the multiplying millions of the English speaking race spreading over more widely over the surface of the globe have turned in their need to the grand simplicity of the Authorized Version, and have drawn upon its inexhaustible springs of wisdom, courage and joy.

It is my confident hope—confirmed by the widespread interest your movement has aroused—that my subjects may never cease to cherish their noble inheritance in the English Bible, which in a secular aspect, is the first of national treasures, and is, as you truly say, in its spiritual significance, the most valuable thing that this world affords."

The ceremony took place in the Throne Room, and a member of the deputation was presented individually to the King, who heartily shook hands with all.

The deputation and other guests were afterwards entertained at luncheon by the Stationers' Company in Stationers' Hall, Amen-corner. The Stationers' Company, as the Master reminded the deputation, had no insignificant share in the preparation and issuing of the Authorized Version. On the Company's coat-of-arms are seen three Bibles, and its motto is Verbum Domini manet in eternum (the Word of the Lord endureth for ever). The Archbishop of Canterbury in the course of a short speech, made a reference to modern ideas about the Bible, and raised laughter by saying that there were some gentlemen present whom a hundred years ago, if he had had to inquire into their views of the Scriptures, he would have been obliged to treat with great severity than he liked and perhaps to reprimand them, with unpleasant consequences.

A vast assembly gathered a few days ago in Albert Hall, London, at which President Taft's letter was read and premier Asquith spoke and the people received both letter and speaker with enthusiastic cheers. No such demonstration of any sort other than political has been made by the British people in recent years; and in the opinion of eye witnesses the Bible celebration surpassed all other recent demonstrations, both in the number of participants and in the general significance. America will answer this cordial and earnest interest in one of the greatest events since the Reformation and the beginnings of modern progress and liberty of thought.

GRADUATING CLASS ABOLISH ORATION

Monroe Seniors Decide to Substitute Some Speakers for Usual Original Essays and Orations.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Monroe, Wis., April 14.—An address by some well known speaker will be the chief feature of the commencement in June of the Monroe high school, the senior class having voted to dispense with the regular orations and essays. The change has been made owing to the large number of graduates, probably forty, and with each one taking part in the exercises the program would have to be carried into two or three evenings. Rev. N. E. McLaughlin has been unanimously chosen to deliver the baccalaureate address.

The students who do not participate in the class exercises will write out their essays, orations, or any subjects which they may choose, to be approved by the faculty. The title for the annual class play has not as yet been decided upon. Miss Mina Cutler will have charge of the production.

Annual Church Meeting.
The yearly business meeting of the Union church, to which pastorate Rev. Coel J. Armstrong, of Troy, N. Y., recently took charge, was attended by a large number of church members and also interested friends, who were also present at the supper served in the vestry of this church preceding the business session. The reports of the officers show the church to be in a flourishing condition, and the present membership now numbers 140, and the audience has doubled during the past pastorate. The sentiment of those present was in favor of erecting a new structure and support was liberally promised.

A Corner in Candles.
As an example of trusts and monopolies prevalent even in that early day it may be mentioned that in 1750 one Benjamin Crabb obtained the exclusive right to make sperm candles in Massachusetts for 14 years.

A year later, however, a factory was started in Providence, R. I., and within the decade there were eight factories in New England and one in Philadelphia. Their output greatly reduced the price of candles, which not long before sold for five shillings a pound, in those days $1.25 was worth fully three times as much as it is now.

Seems Profitable Investment.
It is estimated that at a cost of $200,000 fully 100,000 acres of good land within a reasonable distance of Savannah can be drained and made productive of cotton to the annual value of more than $4,000,000.

While engaged in playing about the back yard, the little one went into the barn and finding the bottle evidently used in the treatment of some of the horses, placed it to his mouth. There being only a small amount of the poison in the bottle and medical aid close at hand the boy was fortunate enough to get out of it with only some bad burns about the mouth and hands.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

WHY it is, I wonder, that people of reserve and taste in most matters, so frequently offend the canons of both by having their living rooms and reception rooms and even their dining rooms, lavishly hung with photographs of their family and relatives and intimate friends?

That the rooms which are used for the entertainment of general company should be decorated chiefly with impersonal pictures, pictures of general interest, seems to me just as much a law of taste and politeness as that conversation with these people should be of general interest rather than on personal matters.

You would never think of examining your relatives and intimates into your caller's case by talking constantly about them. Why, then, should you fasten them upon her eyes by covering the walls of the room in which you entertain her, with nothing but their pictures?

The private den or study or workroom where only the most intimate friends are taken, or the study of one's private personality, one's own chamber, seems to me the proper places for these picture galleries, and yet, how seldom we see a home where this rule is strictly adhered to.

I suppose it is partly because in these days of frequent and easy picture taking, most of us have so many photographs of our friends in our possession that they overflow our private quarters and inundate the whole house.

Quite frequently the gift of a photograph, fond though we may be of its original and glad though we may be to receive it, brings a problem in its wake.

We show it to the people who will be especially interested in it. It flows about on our desk or table for a few days, and then what? If we stand it up or tack it up unframed it will surely spoil and discolor. We do not feel like taking the money to buy a frame especially for it. And yet we could surely have been offended if that friend had passed us by in the distribution of her pictures.

I know one girl who solves this little problem in a way that will surely interest for its uniqueness even if it does not appeal. She has about a half dozen frames which is all there is space for in her room. These frames are so made that the pictures can easily be slipped in and out. Every few weeks she changes the pictures in them so that she has all her friends looking down upon her from time to time.

In this connection let me suggest that for an inexpensive birthday or Christmas gift, I know of nothing that will be more sure to fill a niche of need than a small frame, suitable for a photograph. Let it be of any sort, an oval or brass or bronze or the simplest of wooden frames, and it will undoubtedly find a welcome, for show me the person who has not more photographs than he has frames for them, and I will show you a rarity.

The Katherine Kip Editorial

WHY WORRY ABOUT IT?

Of course it may rain tomorrow, but why worry about it? Why not take the pleasure today's sunshine offers? Why not be reasonable in this thing as well as any other?

There are far too many people who are always looking for the cloud that portends tomorrow's storm instead of enjoying today's sunshine as they should. Besides, when tomorrow's storm does come it may not be half as bad as our imagination paints it.

If we live in constant fear of what may happen we cannot accomplish today's tasks in the way we should. Then why spoil good work because we allow our imaginations to run away with us? Why destroy our appetite for the things of today, because we fear bitterness will be our portion tomorrow? Why not take all the sweets that are legitimately ours today in order that the whole cup may be sweetened tomorrow?

A young girl had her life made miserable in summer time because of her almost insane fear of storms. Every time a cloud crossed the sky she was thrown into a state of terror, and she was nervous to the point of hysteria because she was always sure that each such cloud portended a storm in which she might be called upon to surrender her life.

One of the difficulties in her case was that she was thrown in constant association with several grown people who were as big cowards as herself.

Finally, one day in the height of a storm she conquered herself. She reasoned that if she were to die in a storm all the worry in the world would not change her fate. That she believed that there was some work for her to do in the world and that it was quite unlikely that she would be called on to die during a disturbance of the elements. Never after that was she afraid. She learned to love a storm in the same way that any one who apprehends strength and power does.

But she not only conquered her fear of storms but she conquered every other cowardly characteristic. And her example had a good effect upon others, particularly her younger brothers and sisters. The moral support of her new view of life and her attitude towards the ill of the world were of inestimable value to them in shaping their careers. Others who came in contact with her were benefited because hopefulness always benefits.

We must feel that ill is not likely to happen to us, but that if it does we shall be prepared for it. That makes it possible for us to extract honey out of today and gives us a store of strength to draw from if tomorrow does happen to be stormy.

Using a little philosophy with the ordinary affairs of life seems, at least, to help things along and that is what we want. Less worry and more concentrated work is what most of us need and we can get both if we only look for it.

To Women Readers

A letter received from Evansville today asking if the menu contest was open to the whole county raises the question that some of the possible contestants have not understood the conditions of the present contest. ### BILIOUSNESS.

The question of diet is all important to the person prone to biliousness. When the liver is secreting an excess of bile it is a certain indication that the albumen in the dietary is beyond the body's requirements, and should be lessened. This is seen from the demonstrated fact that the bile itself is produced from albuminoids, and that with reduction of albumen the secretion of bile is correspondingly reduced.

A Few Unusual Recipes. Here are some recipes that the cooks will like to try:

Norwegian Potato Sausage. Put nine peeled potatoes through a meat chopper with one and a half pounds of round beef and one small onion; season with salt and pepper. Fill large sausage casings with the mixture, tie securely and keep in a heavy brine until needed. When wanted to serve, boil an hour, and serve sliced on a platter well garnished.

When a little ham is left over from dinner, chop it and use it in an omelet for another meal. This will prove sufficiently nutritive and will save the meat bill.

German Rice. Cook a cup of rice in boiling water to cover, stirring occasionally with a fork to keep from scorching. Add a teaspoonful each of salt and butter, and when nearly done add a cup of milk. Serve with browned butter, sugar and cinnamon sprinkled on top.

Peanut Soup. Put a pint of freshly-roasted peanuts through a meat chopper several times. Heat one pint of milk with a pint of water; thicken with a tablespoonful each of flour and butter cooked together. Season with salt and pepper. Add the peanuts and cook ten minutes.

In cold weather, or if set on ice, it will be ready for use in six hours.

Add the boiling milk and set in a vessel of hot water, a "cozey" or a thick cloth wrapped about it, for five minutes. Then it is ready for use.

To Prevent Curtains Sagging. When the lace curtains are ready to be washed, basin a narrow strip of muslin along each outer edge and let it remain until the washing and drying process is completed and you will find your curtains are straight and do not sag.

MAKES TRAY SERVICE EASY

Little Things That Help Where Many Meals Are Served in a Room.

Where many meals are served in a room it is well to hunt up some of the novelties that make such service easy.

Very new is a tray of white porcelain with silver or nickel trimmings. This is fitted with grooves of the metal in which are set two cups and saucers, a tea pot, cream jug, butter plate, toast rack, marmalade jar and small breakfast plate.

Smaller but equally convenient is a combination salt and pepper shaker set in a little stand, which holds a glass butter plate and knife. The stand has a curved handle, which makes it easy to lift from the main tray when not in use.

Another convenience is the teaspoon with perforations that make it possible to send up a jug of boiling water and have tea just the right strength.

Date Muffins

A New Way of Using Dates
By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

The value of dates as a food is hardly appreciated. They are wholesome, nutritious, and when used in K. C. Date Muffins make a recipe that is appreciated by the entire family.

K. C. Date Muffins
One-third cup butter; 1/2 cup sugar; 1 egg; 1/2 cup milk; 2 cups flour; 3 level teaspoonfuls K. C. Baking Powder; 1/4 teaspoonful salt; scant 1/2 pound dates.

Cream the butter, add the sugar and the egg, beaten light. Sift together three times the flour, baking powder and salt; add these to the first mixture, alternately with the milk; beat thoroughly and add the dates, stoned and cut in pieces. To bake, have a shallow oven until the muffins double in bulk, then increase heat to bake and brown quickly. Muffins baked this way will be light, appetizing and more easily digested.

This is only one of the many appetizing recipes found in the K. C. Cook's Book.

The wonderful K. C. Cook's Book is substantially bound and printed in nine colors, contains ninety tested and easily-made recipes by Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, of the world famous Boston Cooking School Magazine.

You can secure a copy FREE by sending the colored certificate packed in 25-cent case of K. C. Baking Powder to the Janesville Grocery Co., Chicago.

The BRONZE BELL

BY LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE
AUTHOR OF "THE BRASS BOWL," ETC.

"Agha!" she said, sharply. "Thou art tardy, heaven-born. Yet have I waited for thee this half-hour gone, heavy with sleep though I be—waited to know the pleasure of my lord."

There was a mockery but faintly disguised in her tone. The maharajah seemed to find it not unpleasant, for he smiled grimly beneath his mustache.

"There was work to be done," he said briefly—"for the cause. And thou—how has thou wrought, O Breaker of Hearts?"

The woman clasped her hands behind her head. "Am I not Naraini?"

"The man is ours?"

"Mine," she corrected amiably. His face darkened with a scowl of jealousy and she laughed in open derision. "Were I Naraini could I not divine the heart of a man?"

"By what means?"

"What is that to thee, O heaven-born?" She snuggled her body complacently into the luxurious pile of cushions. "If I have accomplished the task thou didst set for me, what concern hast thou with the means I did employ? Thou art only Salik Singh, maharajah of Khandawar, but I am Naraini, a free woman."

"Thou—!" Rage choked the rajput. "Thou," he sputtered—"thou art—"

"Softly, heaven-born, softly—lest I loose a thunderbolt for thy destruction. Is it wise to forget that Naraini holds thy fate in the hollow of her hands?" She sat forward, spending swiftly and with malice. "Thou art pledged to produce Har Dyal Rutton in the Hall of the Bell before another sunrise, and none but Naraini knows to what a perilous resort thou art driven to redeem thy word."

"I was lied to," he argued sullenly. "A false tale was brought me—by one who hath repeated of his error! If I was told that Har Dyal Rutton would be in India upon such-and-such a day, am I to blame that I did promise to bring him to the Gateway?"

"And seeing that the man is dead, art thou to blame for bringing in his place a substitute, even so poor a changeling as this man Amber? Nay, be not angry; do I blame thee? Have I done aught but serve thee to the end thou dost desire? . . . Thou shouldst be grateful to me, rather than menace me with thine anger. . . . And, who added, sweetly, 'It was well for thee that thou shouldst hear always in mind my intimacy with thy secret. If thou art lying, then I am more than queen in Khandawar.' 'I am not angry, Naraini,' he told her humbly, 'but mad with love for thee.'"

"And that, my lord, for—power," she interpolated.

"But if what thou has said be true—"

"Who lies to the king, is already a dead man. Why should I trouble to deceive thee, heaven-born? I tell thee, the man is won. The day shall declare it; this night will he ride with me to Kathlapur. Why didst thou not tarry to eavesdrop? Indeed thou hast lost an opportunity that may never be a second time to learn of the will of a woman."

"There was work to be done," he repeated. "I went to take measures against thy failure."

"O thou of little faith!"

"Nay, why should I neglect proper precautions? Whether thy confidence be justified or not, this night will Har Dyal Rutton—or one like him—endure the ordeal of the Gateway."

"So I have told thee," she assented equably. "He will come, because Naraini bids him."

"It may be so. If not, another lure shall draw him."

She started with annoyance. "The Englishwoman of the pictures?"

"Have I named her?" He lifted his heavy brows in affected surprise.

"Nay, but—"

"Secret for secret," he offered; "mine for thine. Is it a bargain, O Pearl of Khandawar?"

"Keep thy silly secret, then, as I will keep mine counsel," she said, with assumed disdain. It was no part of wisdom, in her understanding, to tell him of her interview with Amber. A man's jealousy is a potent weapon, and Naraini's hands, but must be withheld with discretion.

"Of good heart," she comforted him. "If he doth fail to survive the ordeal—Har Dyal Rutton hath died. If he doth survive—"

"Har Dyal Rutton shall die within the hour," Salik Singh concluded, grimly. "But . . . I am troubled. I cannot but ask myself continually: Were it not wiser to confess failure and abide the outcome?"

"How long wouldst thou abide the outcome, my king, after thou hadst informed the council of this deception to which thou hast been too willing and ready a party? . . . He who misled you did a dog's death. But thou—art thou in love with death?"

"Unless thy other name be Death, Naraini."

"Or if the council should spare thee—as is unlikely? The patience of the Body is as the patience of kings—scent; and its mercy is like unto its patience. . . . But say thou art spared; what then? How long art thou prepared to wait until the Members of the Body shall again be in such complete accord as now? When again shall all Hindustan be ripe for revolt? . . . Ah! Thou wouldst have sweet patience in the waiting, Salik Singh! . . . Let matters rest as they be, my lord—this a truce imperiously. 'Leave the man to me; I stand sponsor for him until the Gateway shall have received him and—perhaps for a little afterwards.'"

"Thou art right as ever," he lifted his gaze to meet hers and his eyes flashed. "I leave my life on your knees, Naraini. I love thee and . . . by all the gods, thou art altogether a woman!"

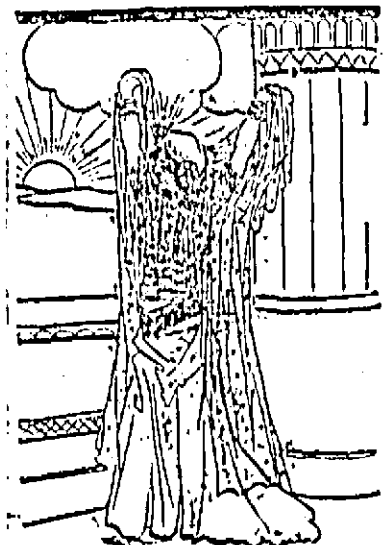

"And thou . . . a man, your highness?" she countered provokingly. "Nay!" she concluded, evading him with a supple squirm, "be content until this affair be consummated. Wait until the time when an empress shall reign over all Bharuta and thou, my lord, shall be her minister of state."

The man's voice shook. "That hour is not far off, my queen. Thou wilt not keep me waiting longer!"

She gave him the quick promise of her eyes.

She swept away from him, toward the parapet. He took a single step in pursuit and halted, following her with a glance that was at once careless and a threat.

With eyes half-closed by long languorous lashes the woman threw back her head until her swelling throat was tense. She raised her arms and stretched them wide. The sun, soaring suddenly, a crimson disk above the ridge, seemed to strike fire from her straining, savage beauty as from a jewel.

Her parted lips moved, but the man, who had drawn near enough to hear, caught two words only.

"Naraini! . . . Empress!"

CHAPTER XVII.

The Way to Kathlapur.

Call and wormwood in his mouth, more bitter than remorse, Amber became conscious. Or perhaps it was more truly to say that he struggled out of unconsciousness, dreading his ego back by "main" will-power from the deep oblivion of drugged slumber. One by one his faculties fought their way past the barrier, until he was fully sentient, save that his memory drowned. His head was hot and heavy, his eyes burned in their sockets like balls of live charcoal, a dulled buzz zing sounded in his ears, his very heart felt sore and numb; he was as one who wakes from evil dreams to the blackness of foreknown despair.

Suddenly he raised himself upon the charpoy and called huskily for the khansamah. Promptly the squat white figure that he remembered appeared in the doorway. "Bring lights," Amber ordered, peremptorily. "Bring lights quickly—and water." And when the man had returned with a lamp, which he put on the table, Amber seized the red earthenware water-jug and drained it greedily. Returning it empty, to the brown hands, he motioned to the man to wait, while he consulted his watch. It had run down. He thrust it back into his pocket and inquired: "What's o'clock?"

"Eight in the evening, sahib."

Amber gasped and stared. "Eight of the . . . Let me think. Go and bring me food and a brandy-peg—or, hold on! Bring a bottle of soda water and a glass only."

The khansamah withdrew. Amber felt back with his shoulders to the wall and stared unwinking at the lamp. He distinctly remembered undressing before going to bed; he now found himself fully clothed. He felt of his pocket, and found the emerald ring there, instead of in its chamois case. Then it had not been a night-mare!

He had a bottle of brandy which had never been uncorked, in his traveling kit. Rising, he found it and inspected the cork narrowly to make sure it had not been tampered with; then he drew it.

The khansamah returned with the glass and an uncorked bottle of Schweppes, and prepared the drink under eyes that watched him narrowly. While Amber drank he laid a place for him at the table. When he left the room a second time the Virginian produced his automatic pistol and satisfied himself that it remained loaded and in good working order.

In the course of a few minutes the native reappeared with a tray of food and pot of coffee. These arranged, he stood by the chair, ready to serve the guest. Then he found himself looking into the muzzle of Amber's weapon, and became apparently rigid with terror.

"Sahib!"

"Make no outcry, dog, and tell me no lies. If you value your contemptible life. Why did you drug me—at whose instance?"

"Sahib! . . ."

"Answer me quickly, son of vipers!"

"My Dhola Bakhsh, sahib, I am innocent! Another has done these things—he who served you last night, he, and whose place I have taken."

Now the oaths of India are many and various, so that a new specimen need not be held wonderful. But Amber sat bolt upright, his eyes widening and his jaw dropping. "Dhola—" he said, and brought his teeth together with an audible click, staring at the khansamah as if he were a recalcitrance of prehistoric mammal. He caught a motion of the head and a wave of the hand toward the window, warning him that there might be an eavesdropper lurking without, and rose admirably to the emergency.

"That is a lie, misbegotten son of a one-eyed woman of shame! By the gateway of Kathlapur, that is a lie! Speak, brother of Jackals and father of swine, let my temper overcome me and I make carrion of you!"

"My lord, hear me!" protested the man in an extremity of fright. "These be the words of truth. If otherwise, let my head be forfeit. . . . Early in the morning you returned from the lake, heavy with sleep, and so soundly have you slept since that hour that no effort of mine could rouse you, though many came to the door, making inquiry. I am Ram Lal, a true man, and no trafficker in drugs and potions."

"Even so!" said Amber, ironically. "But if, on taking thought, I find you've lied to me. . . . Go 'now and hold yourself fortunate in this, that I am not a man of hasty judgment."

"Huzoor!" Like a shadow harried by a wind of night, the khansamah scurried from the room. But on the threshold he paused long enough to lay a significant finger upon his lips and nod toward the table.

From the khansamah's quarters came an occasional clink of crockery and pattering of naked feet. Outside, in the compound, the sepoys were chattering volubly; their words were inaudible, but from their constantly increasing animation Amber inferred that they were keenly relishing the topic of discussion. He became sure of this when, at length, his curiosity aroused, he went to the window and peered out between the wooden slats of the blind. The little company was squatting in a circle round the fire, and a bottle was passing from hand to hand.

He turned back, puzzled, to find the khansamah calmly seated at the table and enjoying one of Amber's choicest cigarettes.

"Thank God," he said, with profound emotion, "for a civilized smoke!"

"Labertouch!" cried Amber.

The pseudo-khansamah rose, bowed formally, and shook hands with considerable cordiality. "It's good to see you whole and sound," he said. "I had to wait until Ram Nath's work began to show results. He's out there, you know, keeping the bottle moving. I don't believe those damned sepoys will bother us much, now, but we've got to time at all to spare. Now tell me what you have to tell, omitting nothing of the slightest consequence."

Amber dropped into a chair, and the Englishman sat near to him. "I say, thank God for you, Labertouch! You don't know how I've needed you."

"I can fancy. I've had a ripping time of it myself. Harry I couldn't communicate with you safely before you left Calcutta. But we've not a minute to waste. Get into your yarn, please; explanations later, if we can afford 'em."

Wife Badly Needed.

An excited papa almost broke up a woman suffrage meeting by rushing in and calling for his wife to hurry home because the baby had the colic and he couldn't find the colic cure.

An example of the old rough and ready methods of arriving at a measurement is the Elizabethan way of getting the "feet." Falentin Leigh, who wrote on surveying, records that after service on Sunday sixteen men were stopped at the church door, just as they happened to come out, and drawn up in line, left foot to left foot. The length thus obtained was taken as "a right and lawful road to measure and survey the land with," and a sixteenth part of it as "a right and lawful foot." Although big and little men were thus roughly averaged against each other, the results naturally varied to some extent. Hence it is, as Shaw Sparrow notes in treating of this "road" as the architectural "bay" which gives us the "bay window," that a bay is sometimes found to be rather less than sixteen feet of twelve inches.—London Chronicle.

Custom House Humor.

Two Germans who were crossing the Luxembourg frontier declared to the customs officials: "We have with us three bottles of red wine each. How much is there to pay?" "Where is it?" was asked. "Well, inside us."

The official gravely looked at his tariff book and read: "Wine in casks, 20 shillings. In bottles, 48 shillings. In donkeys' hides, free. Gentlemen," he added, looking up, "you can go!"

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy cured Mrs. C. C. Gokey, of a stubborn case of heart disease, such as thousands are now suffering with. Read what she says:

"Before I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy I had been suffering from heart trouble for over five years. I had grown so weak that it was impossible for me to do thirty minutes work in a whole day. I suffered intense pains in my left side and under the left shoulder blade. I could not sleep on the left side, and was so short of breath that I thought I should never be able to take a full breath again. The least excitement would bring on the most distressing palpitation. I had scarcely taken a half-bottle of the Heart Remedy before I could see a marked change in my condition. I began to sleep well, had a good appetite, and improved so rapidly that when I had taken six bottles I was completely cured."

Janesville and Its Handsome Women

One of the first things remarked by strangers in the city is the number of handsome women with which Janesville is favored. Go where you will and you will not see as many attractive faces as can be seen on our streets every day. Janesville women are better looking and better dressed than is true of those of any other city in this neck of the woods. It is one of the facts which has made Janesville famous and rightly too, for what is more to be admired than a beautiful woman. We all take a natural pride in things like this and it makes us glad to know we can call it home. Do you really appreciate this fact of "home beauty." lucky this mighty hunter had no army at his back and his one object was the opening up of a virgin territory for the oncoming race.

The history of no man is filled with the adventures, the hair breadth escapes and almost unbearable trials as that of Boone. With his trusty rifle, his knowledge of woodcraft and his ability to earn the friendship of the savage Indians he opened up that fertile spot known as Kentucky.

The play of Daniel Boone on the Trail that comes to the Myers Theatre Saturday, April 15, matinee and evening, depicts a most interesting part of this exciting invasion. There are heart thrills aplenty. At this council of war with the chiefs of the tribes of Shawnee Indians you will see the method used by the savages in their dealings with the white man. Never before on any stage has any such thing been shown as where Boone grabs the hand of Blackfish and stops him from hurling defiance against the forces of Cornwallis.

In presenting this great historical play Mr. Harris carries a pack of wild Siberian wolves and a tribe of full blooded blanketed Sioux Indians. These features are worked into the many different scenes of the play.

Washington.—That the life of one poor enfeebled man is of more importance than business or expense was again demonstrated in a remarkable incident which has just come to light.

On board the United States steamship Vicksburg, the ship's tailor was stricken with appendicitis and the operation performed was not entirely successful. The navy department and the state department at Washington were immediately notified and after a hurried consultation directed that the vessel should under forced draft sail to the nearest modern hospital at Panama. This was done in spite of the fact that an hour's delay would have cost the state department to investigate conditions in Nicaragua and that upon his report being a $15,000,000 loan.

As soon as orders were flashed to the Vicksburg every man on board jumped in with a vim and they completed a record run to Panama, where the sick man was transferred to the hospital and is now reported to be recovering under the direction of skilled physicians.

Washington, D. C.—The most brilliant social affair of the season took place on Monday, March 27, when Countess Louise Alexandra von Bernstorff was united in marriage to Count Raimund Pourtales. A distinguished gathering of notables from the world was present at the ceremony which was received by the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Taft sent a very valuable white silk fan with gold embroidery. Many valuable and beautiful gifts were sent. Mrs. Taft sent a large ornamental silver dish. The bride is the daughter of the German ambassador to this country and the groom is at present an attaché of the embassy but it is expected that after the marriage they will go on once to Berlin and that the count will be given a more responsible position in the German diplomatic corps.

Self-Preservation.

"So you have sold your pair of horses and bought an automobile?" "Yes," replied Miss Cayenne, "I have concluded that it is better to be the cause of a runaway than to be in it."

Cornered All the Sugar.

"Well, how do you feel since you have not engaged to that delightful little Miss Peachy?" "Say, I feel like I had put one over on the sugar trust!"
